

Food Voucher Workshop

Jeremie

September 2012

The Food Voucher Workshop, held in Jeremie September 11, 12 and 13, brought together participants from USAID's NGO partners, WFP, the Government of Haiti, the Office of Food for Peace in Washington as well as USAID Haiti. The 3 days included discussions with food voucher recipients, site visits to food voucher vendors, meetings with local authorities and workshop participant presentations and discussions.

The purpose of the workshop was to identify issues and best practices regarding food voucher programming in Haiti to promote and inform further discussion of such an activity as part of the Haiti government's national safety net strategy.

Workshop discussions relied heavily on the experiences of our partners who implement food assistance programs, as well as on government of Haiti counterparts who shared their vision for safety net programming in Haiti, specifically vis a vis food vouchers.

A collection of presentations and documents from the workshop are hereby provided to enable those who were not present to have the information that was shared.
